Friends & Families Celebrate a Red, White & Blue Fourth

A little morning rain from Tropical Storm Arthur could not stop the borough-sponsored Annual Fourth of July Family Picnic at Upland Memorial Park, where the free food was wonderful, but the joyful communing of friends, neighbors, and families was even better.

You Can Tell That Things Are Not Going Well for the Phillies When:

- Their clean-up hitter's body weight is greater than his batting average.
- Many of the best players on the team are hoping or even asking to be traded.
- The TV ratings for Phillies broadcasts have fallen behind reruns of Gilligan's Island.
- Every Phillies jersey has been marked down for clearance at Modell's since May.
- Not even the Phillie Phanatic's antics can make you smile when you're watching the games.

Upland PD Shines Spotlight On History

Do you have any old photographs of Upland police officers? Can you tell a story, recalling an event or particular instance that involved the Upland Police Department?

If so, Upland Police Chief Nelson Ocasio would like to make copies of your old photos and/or sit down with you and listen to your police-related stories.

This community outreach is part of Ocasio's effort to preserve the proud history of the borough's police force, which was established back in 1869, when Upland Borough was officially incorporated.

If you can help the Upland PD retrieve any piece of its history in any way, please call the police station at 610-872-3040 to share the information.

All photos should be removed from frames or albums, so that the prints can be scanned into a digital format and immediately returned to the owner completely unscathed.

Police Officers & CCMC Guards Commended For Life-Saving Actions

On the night of June 11, Upland police officers were called to Crozer-Chester Medical Center for a stabbing in the emergency room. As the assailant was stabbing his stepfather with a knife, two CCMC security guards, Officers Michael Powell and Graham Williams, intervened to save the victim's life. The two security guards managed to subdue and disarm the attacker, then cuffed and restrained him, until the police arrived. On July 8, Upland Borough Council recognized the timely actions of the guards, presenting both with a unit citation.

"We want to thank Officer Powell and Officer Williams for their heroic act," stated Mayor Michael Ciach, while presenting the framed awards.

Citations were also given to Upland Officers John Bogan and Sean Dougherty, who were the responding patrolmen, and Investigator Anthony DeLuise and Officer Michael Curran, who led the criminal investigation after the incident.

The entire group of officers, along with CCMC Director of Security Steven Jackson, were given a standing ovation by borough citizens.

"Although this situation was tragic, with the proper teamwork, the victim made out okay and the bad guy is now behind bars," Ciach noted.

Street Improvements Completed

The borough's Public Works Department was again hailed by Borough Council for their tax dollar-saving work on Upland streets. At Council's July 8 meeting, Streets & Equipment Committee Chairwoman Christine Peterson noted the excellent work that was recently completed with the repair of a stormwater inlet on Oak Lane and the installation of 44 linear feet of new curb on Main Street.

Upland Resident Peter Hartshorn, who was hired by the borough last year as the third full-time man in the Public Works Department, is the master technician when it comes to concrete work.

Thanks, Pete, and keep up the good work!

Fire Co. Plans Fundraisers

Upland Fire Company # 1 has scheduled a series of fundraisers to help cover the cost of firehouse improvements. While the bulk of the recent $315,000 renovation was financed by the borough, the fire company contributed its entire reserve fund ($57,000), and money is now needed to complete some interior improvements to the new addition.

Please support the fire company's efforts to raise funds. Giving this kind of financial assist to your hometown firefighters is the cheapest type of homeowners' insurance policy you can buy.

- Soft pretzels, bottled water, and glow stix will be sold at the Aug. 31 fireworks display.
- A Nelson's BBQ fundraiser is planned for September 13, offering delicious BBQ ribs and BBQ chicken dinners to go.
- At the end of October, a pamphlet will be sent out to all Upland residents, offering a selection of beautiful holiday wreaths.
- Christmas trees will be sold at the firehouse, from late November until Christmas Eve, with free delivery offered to all seniors.
- A Monte Carlo Night is being planned for February.

*

In other fiscal matters, Fire Chief/Councilman Dan Smith recently told his fellow Council members that the fire company will now be getting more aggressive in collecting money owed for fire services. Under a borough ordinance adopted in 2011, the fire company can bill non-contributors for services rendered.

"We will take an aggressive approach to this, in hopes of either increasing our revenues from the fund drive or receiving monies from billing," Smith stated.

Smith also said that he is currently doing research to determine if establishing an ambulance service in Upland would be a profitable venture for the fire company and the borough, where the majority of the population is senior citizens. He noted that his outreach efforts to local ambulance corps and CCMC officials are still in the preliminary stages, but expects to have more information by the Aug. 26 Council meeting.

Free Smoke Alarms Still Available

Upland Fire Co. #1 has been giving away free smoke/fire alarms to any borough resident who wants one since January. Dozens of free smoke detectors have been installed over the past six months, and request forms are still available at the borough office.

If a resident needs help installing their free battery-operated smoke alarm, fire company volunteers have been providing that service for free, getting the detectors installed within a week of the request.

A total of 50 9-volt First Alert alarms (each with a 10-year guarantee) were donated to the borough by BRK Electronics, while an additional 100 units were purchased at the discounted price of $600.

This offer of free alarms and free installation will continue as long as supplies last.

"If any of our resident homeowners need smoke detectors, both Borough Council and the fire company are more than willing to make that happen," stated Fire Chief/Councilman Dan Smith.

Borough Takes Bids On CDBG Projects

The borough held a bid opening on July 24, seeking the best price for two public improvement projects, both of which are being funded by Community Development Block Grants from the county. The borough engineer will review the sealed bids and give Borough Council his recommendations at the Aug. 26 meeting.

One set of bids involves the pending demolition of the blighted building at 36 Upland Avenue. This public safety project was selected by Delaware County Council for a 2014 CDBG award.

A second set of bids involves the second phase of construction of the 11th Street Extension. Phase 2 will see the laying of a new roadway that will connect Hill Street to 24th Street, completing the extension that will ultimately link Mulberry Street to 24th Street and provide a new emergency access to Upland Avenue.

Both phases of the 11th Street Extension are CDBG-funded, utilizing grants awarded in 2012 and 2013. The first phase of the project has been temporarily suspended, while the borough waits for PECO to relocate the guide wires that support a utility pole next to the new roadway. Laid in March 2013, the 250-foot-long first phase of the extension is still a gravel roadbed, and is not yet ready for use.

As Phase 2 preparatory work is getting underway, it is hoped that PECO can get their crews on the job soon, so that both new roadbeds might be paved at the same time.

Upland Creates Historical Commission

On July 8, Borough Council officially established the Upland Historical Commission to serve as an advisory body that will focus on protecting the borough's historical assets.

One of the commission's primary tasks will be to review new development applications to assess the potential impact on Upland's historic sites.

The borough residents who have stepped forward to help protect their hometown's heritage as charter members of the Upland Historical Commission include Sandy Deldeo, Brian Davis, Brock Peterson, and Tom Bryant, along with Engineer Lou Brown, who brings technical expertise to the panel.

Alternate commission members are still being sought. Interested residents should contact the borough office at 610-874-7317.

Annual Welcome Day Celebration at Landingford Plantation

Noon to 4pm on Saturday, Oct. 25

Marine Private First Class Thomas L. Ciancia, Jr. recently graduated from Aviation Electronics School in Pensacola.

Uplander Proud of Marine Grandson

Jody Richardson, of Main Street, is quite proud of her grandson, Thomas L. Ciancia, Jr., who enlisted in the U. S. Marine Corps last year.

Tommy, who will soon be 21, grew up in Glenside, PA. He followed in his father's footsteps when he enlisted in the Marine Corps and started his basic training at Parris Island, SC last December.

After completing boot camp, Ciancia went on to four weeks of Marine Combat Training at Camp Lejeune, NC. In April, he signed up to attend classes at the Aviation Electronics School in Pensacola, FL, where he was selected as the leader of his class and promoted to Private First Class on June 1.

PFC Ciancia will complete his technical schooling and transfer to the Marine air base at Cherry Point, NC in August, and hopefully will have a chance to visit with his family in between.

Tommy's father, now age 51, grew up in Upland, and spent 20 years in the Marine Corps himself, serving in the Persian Gulf War. Tom Ciancia retired as a Gunner Sergeant, after serving several years as a Marine recruiter in Easton, PA.

"I'm very proud of my grandson, but I didn't expect him to be going into the Marines," says Mrs. Richardson. "He was not pushed into it, but decided for himself, and that's what I'm most proud of."

Upland Mayor Makes Run For PA House

A host of local Republican Party officials gathered at the Marcus Hook Community Center on March 1 to formally announce the candidacy of Upland Borough Mayor Michael Ciach for the 159th Legislative District's seat in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives.

That seat has been held by Democrat Thaddeus Kirkland of Chester since 1993. Ciach is the latest in a string of GOP challengers to take on the entrenched Kirkland, who is currently serving his eleventh consecutive term as a state representative. "I'm going to make this a street fight, and go after him down and hard," Ciach promised his supporters. "I'm going to go into his backyard, right down into the City of Chester and go to the (council) meetings."

"District 159 used to be one of the strongest political organizations in the county, and we're going to get it back to being that way," Ciach added to applause.

The 159th District encompasses the City of Chester, Chester Township, Lower Chichester Township, parts of Ridley Township and Upper Chichester Township, and the boroughs of Upland, Parkside, Trainer, Eddystone, and Marcus Hook.

In his attempt to unseat Kirkland, Ciach brings an extensive resume of public service, including 12 years on borough council, prior to serving the last nine years as mayor. Ciach has also served as vice president of the Delaware County Association of Boroughs for the past three years.

Ciach's duties as mayor have broadened the scope of his experience, as he oversees the operations of the Upland Police Department, while serving as the borough's liaison to all public and charter schools and to Crozer-Chester Medical Center.

Ciach, 47, has lived in either Upland or Chester his entire life. He is currently employed as a copier salesman, and considers rearing his two adult children as a single parent to be among his greatest personal achievements.

Ciach feels that his experience as a decision-maker, both public and private, will help him make sound choices on behalf of the residents of the 159th District.

"I'm ready to go. I've got 20 years of municipal experience and the drive to see this area succeed again," Ciach says of his skill set.

The most urgent issues facing the 159th District are education, job creation and retention, and overall economic recovery, in that order, according to Ciach.

Among the Republican dignitaries who came to Marcus Hook to endorse Ciach's candidacy were Pennsylvania Lieutenant-Governor Jim Cawley, representatives from each of the district's municipalities, and about 60 of the party faithful.

"Mike Ciach is exactly the kind of candidate and public servant that we need in the 159th District," Cawley stated. "He's going to go door-to-door in his campaign and talk about a better way to get things done. I think he represents the true feelings of the people of Delaware County, and particularly this district."

Borough Employee Earns Award

Church Street Resident Michael Diggins is the friendly borough employee who has worked as the Auburn Village maintenance man since October 2011.

Diggins recently attended the Dale Carnegie Leadership Training School at the borough's expense, to enhance his public relations skills. Other Upland Borough employees have taken the professionalism courses and found them to be of great value in jobs that require daily contact with the general public.

Upon graduating on May 29, Mike's classmates elected him as the recipient of the Breakthrough Award, recognizing his self-improvement efforts.

"An accomplishment such as this reflects favorably on our entire organization, so I want to tell Mike: 'Good job in school,'" Borough Council Vice President Christine Peterson stated at the July 8 Council meeting.

"Outstanding, Mike! You did good!" added Council President Ed Mitchell.

Council Approves ID Badge Program

At Borough Council's July 8 meeting, the expenditure of $5,025 was unanimously approved to cover the start-up costs associated with an identification badge system for borough employees. Photo-ID badges will be created by Logan Technology Solutions and will be used by every borough employee when interacting with the public.

A primary goal of the ID badge system is to make borough officials readily identifiable to give them access, especially during an emergency situation, when emergency personnel might be trying to keep people away from a hazardous area that a borough official might need to see.

Borough Saves $$$ On Loan Re-Fi

By recently re-financing the 20-year loan that paid for construction of the new police station in 2009, the borough has saved its taxpayers about $30,000 in interest over the next five years.

The original $850,000 loan from TD Bank came with a 4.83% interest rate, but the rate is scheduled to reset every fifth year of the 20-year term. Upland Borough Special Counsel John Jay Wills, Esq. negotiated the new interest rate for the borough, getting a reset rate of 3.5% through 2019, at which time the rate will be reset again, depending on the prevailing market. Finance Committee Chairwoman Moira Crawford reviewed the new interest rate and recommended Borough Council's approval.

Over the next five years, Upland Borough will pay about $5,000 in debt service every month, saving about $500 each month over the payments made during the first five years of the loan.

The first free-standing headquarters of the Upland Police Department should be paid off by 2029.

All Mattresses and Box Springs Must Be Wrapped For Disposal

Responding to a plea from our trash haulers, the Borough now requires the disposal of any mattress or box spring to be done using a sealed plastic bag. Mattress disposal bags are sold in various sizes at Home Depot stores, but an improvised wrapping, using a plastic sheet sealed with duct tape, is acceptable.

To dispose of a mattress or box spring on the borough's heavy trash day (the last Wednesday of every month), residents must call the borough office (610-874-7317) to be put on the heavy trash pick-up list.

*** No Call or No Wrapping = No Pick-up *****

Council Amends Parking Regs

Under an amended parking ordinance, overnight parking (on streets or private property) in any residentially-zoned area is now prohibited for all commercial vehicles, trucks, tractors, trailers, or vans with a DOT Class 3 or higher rating and/or a GVWR above 9,000 lbs. Street parking of these vehicles is restricted to no more than two hours between 6am and 10pm.

The amended ordinance also bans the parking or storage (for a period exceeding two hours) of all recreational vehicles and utility trailers on borough streets, while storage of no more than one RV (under 30 feet in length) or one trailer (under 20 feet in length) is permitted on private property (in a garage, rear yard, or driveway) with a minimum setback of 10 feet from the paved street.

Violators will receive fines of $25 plus costs, and non-compliant vehicles can be towed at the owner's expense, after a warning is issued.

Home Improvement Tips For Homeowners

The following tips may save you money and a lot of grief, if you are having any type of repairs or home improvements done around your home.

- Get at least three estimates, so that you can compare the prices of reputable companies. And don't hesitate to tell each contractor that you are shopping for the best price, as competition tends to keep prices down.

- Don't be pushed or rushed into signing any contract, even if you have to finance the project. Take your time and get the most for your money.

- Every contractor must show you proof of their insurance and a Home Improvement State License. They must also have an Upland Borough permit, and in some cases, an Upland Borough Contractor's License. A copy of the borough permit must be displayed in a front window of your home.

- Call the borough office at 610-874-7317 during regular business hours to get answers to any questions or concerns.

Flood Safety Awareness Could Save Your Life and/or Property

Every year in the United States, flooding claims nearly 100 lives and causes an average of $8 billion worth of property damage. To highlight these frightening facts, the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) are offering valuable flood safety tips online at www.ready.gov/floods, while information on how to obtain a flood insurance policy can be found at www.floodsmart.gov.

*

Fire Co. Improves Insurance Rating

Upland property owners should check with their insurance carriers to see how much the fire company's improved insurance rating will save them on property insurance.

Insurance Services Office (ISO) out of Marlton, NJ recently completed a Public Protection Classification (PPC) survey of the borough's fire suppression delivery systems. In the ISO's survey summary, significant advances in Upland Fire Company's capabilities, equipment, training, and document-keeping were noted since the last PPC survey.

Due to those advances, Upland Borough's PPC rating has now dropped from 5 down to 4.

According to Fire Chief Dan Smith, that one-point drop is very significant to borough residents, since it moves Upland Borough into the best of three insurance categories.

In terms of fire safety, a community's PPC is rated from 1-4, 5-6, or 7-9, with escalating insurance premiums applied to the higher numbers.

To take full advantage of this new 10-year PPC rating, which is effective as of May 1, 2014, Smith advises all borough property owners to contact their insurance agents soon.

Residents Should Sign Up For Emergency Phone Service

To enjoy the full benefits of the borough's information phone service, residents with unlisted phone numbers should call the borough office at 610-874-7317 to register. The automated service was instituted in 2009 to keep borough residents informed of upcoming community events, but is also utilized in the event of a borough-wide emergency.

P.A.L. Program Gearing Up

Acting Police Chief Nelson Ocasio and Officer Michael Curran came before Borough Council on April 22 to report the substantial progress recently made in preparation for the launch of a Police Athletic League (PAL) program in Upland.

When the borough took ownership of the James W. Reese Center on West 24th Street last year, the first hurdle to starting a PAL program was cleared. More recently, Ocasio and Curran have been working with other PAL coordinators and visiting sites in Philadelphia, where the PAL program now has eight locations spread across the city.

Ocasio and Curran shared their vision of what an Upland PAL program might offer to the community. They suggested that neighboring towns might want to "build off of our model," noting that Upper Darby Township and Chester City have the only other PAL locations in Delaware County.

A PAL program is not a community daycare service, Ocasio noted, but it is "a safe haven, where kids can be kids."

And while the name suggests that a PAL program is all about sports, the chance to participate in team sports is just one avenue used to draw local youth into the free program.

Sports offered by PAL programs include baseball, flag football, basketball, ping-pong, soccer, and martial arts, but these offerings are often the springboard to group activities like school/homework tutoring, computer labs, spelling bees, nature walks, reading & math challenges, and trips to the zoo.

All PAL activities strive to teach values, said Ocasio, which in turn serves as a crime preventative.

PAL members range from 6 to 18 years of age. With roughly 1,000 youth in Upland alone, the new PAL program will be primarily open to Upland residents, but non-resident children with ties to Upland (through schools or churches) will also be welcome. PAL programs typically operate Monday through Friday, from 4-9pm, with longer hours (9am-5pm) offered in the summer months, according to Curran.

While some paid staff will ultimately be needed, most of the staff would be volunteers, including college and high school students, corporate sponsors, and community and church leaders.

Funding for a PAL program in Upland will primarily come from the borough at first, but must ultimately include private donors, event sponsors, and local organizations that are eager to give back to the communities they serve.

Bridge Clean-out Proves Worth

The near-flooding of Chester Creek on May 1 was another reminder of the difference being made in flood control for the lower end of Upland, since tons of silt and mud were removed from under the Kerlin Street Bridge in December 2012, re-opening both of the archways under the concrete highway bridge.

The multi-municipal/PennDOT effort to increase the volume of water that could pass under the bridge during floods has yielded positive results on several occasions already, sparing the lower end from yet another widespread flood, though a couple of close calls have been seen since the bridge clean-out.

"The creek was looking real bad at one point, with debris piled up against the bridge, just like in the old days," Council President Ed Mitchell recounted at the May 13 caucus meeting. "But once they got the debris cleared, the creek went down quickly. That extra span being open is a special, special thing."

Carnival Nets Revenue For Borough Events

According to Community Affairs Committee Chairwoman Sandy Miazza, the outdoor carnival that set up in Bristol Lord Field from May 20-24 generated $4,726 in borough revenue, despite the off and on rainy weather during that week.

All of the carnival revenue will be put towards other events for Upland residents. Upcoming community events include a special Magic Show for kids (Aug. 23), the annual Labor Day Fireworks display (Aug. 31), a Spaghetti Dinner Fundraiser (Sept. 27), and a senior citizen road trip to Shady Maple restaurant (Oct. 13).

Come one, come all, and enjoy the bounty!

The food and fun were both offered up in abundance when the Carnival returned to Bristol Lord Field from May 20-24.

Upland Siblings Praised For Academic Achievement

Kameron Staples, age 19, and his sister, Kamri, 17, grew up on Main Street in Upland, with both attending Main Street Elementary School. But graduating from Main Street Elementary was just the first step on the long and impressive academic ladder that the two students are currently climbing. Kameron and Kamri both graduated from the Chester-Upland School District's S.T.E.M. Academy, with Kameron doing so in 2013 and his sister following in his footsteps in 2014.

Both students graduated with a 4.0+ grade point average; Both were actively involved in high school sports and extra-curricular activities; Both took advanced placement courses; Both served as board members of the C-U Youth Court; Both were elected to serve as Student Government President; and Both represented their graduating classes as Class Valedictorian.

In 2013, Kameron was in competition with over 50,000 other candidates when he was selected as a Bill & Melinda Gates Millennium Scholar and received a full scholarship to the college of his choice, choosing Brown University.

This year, not to be outdone by her brother, Kamri applied for the same award (competing against another 50,000+ candidates), and was ultimately selected as a 2014 Bill & Melinda Gates Millennium Scholar, getting a full scholarship to Cornell University.

To shine the spotlight on the inspirational achievements of the Staples, Upland Mayor Michael Ciach presented the two students with borough proclamations on June 10, while Councilman Harold R. Peden read a congratulatory resolution into the official meeting record. The two exemplary teens then received a standing ovation from Borough Council and every person in the room.

"And I think the parents deserve a big hand too," offered Councilwoman Sandy Miazza, extending the praise and applause to Karl and Bettyjo Staples.

It is no surprise that Kamri is planning to challenge herself in her freshman year at Cornell, where she will major in biological science with a concentration in neurobiology, while on a pre-med track.

Kameron will soon be entering his sophomore year at Brown, where he is carrying a double major in political science and mechanical engineering.

Congratulations to both Kameron and Kamri on their many personal successes (past, present & future), as they light the path brightly for other Chester-Upland grads to follow.

Punch List All That Remains To Complete Firehouse Addition

The first major upgrade of Upland's lone fire station began in mid-November, with a target date for completion of March 8, but construction was stalled by inclement weather in January and February. The arrival of Spring temperatures in early March allowed construction crews to pick up where they left off. Construction was essentially completed in early June, with only a punch list of contracted items left outstanding by June 10. The punch list is expected to be completed by the end of June. The $315,000 construction project saw the addition of another truck bay to house the new Squad 57 fire truck and some new office space for the volunteers of Upland Fire Co. #1.

Borough Makes It Official For Chief Ocasio

Effective as of May 13, Nelson Ocasio's job title is Chief of Police for Upland Borough, dropping the "Acting" prefix that he had used since Chief John Easton retired in January and the "Deputy" prefix he had used for the year prior to that.

Ocasio, 25, served a year in Iraq as a specialist with the U.S. Army, before joining the Upland police force in 2010. He has since become a fixture in the community, while earning the respect of his peers through continuing education and exemplary law enforcement work.

"It's a great honor, and I appreciate the confidence that Council has in me to offer me this position...I won't let you guys down and I will get the job done," Ocasio told Council and the general public, after he was sworn in by Mayor Michael Ciach.

"And I'm grateful for the officers and staff that I have, because without them, I wouldn't be here today," the newly-minted police chief added.

The grave of Reverend David and Dorothy MacQueen at Upland Baptist Church was decorated and saluted by an honor guard to kick off Upland Borough's Annual Memorial Day celebration on May 26.

Upland Patrolman William Meyer led the Memorial Day parade riding on the Upland Police Department's newest vehicle, a 1600 c.c. motorcycle.

The Annual Memorial Day Picnic has been co-sponsored by Upland Baptist and Resurrection Life Churches for the past decade, with the face-painting table being almost as popular as the free food.

Upland Seniors Sell Their Wares

The 2nd annual Upland Senior Citizens Club Flea Market was held on June 14, drawing shoppers looking for a bargain. Judging by Parker Ferguson (above), the vendors were also eager to make a deal.

Some of the vendors were also shoppers, and some were lucky enough to find an item they really loved.

Website Sets New Benchmark

Borough residents told borough officials that they liked what they saw on the borough website by setting a new record for Upland Borough website visits on May 28.

While the borough's website contains a wealth of information and draws many visitors for different reasons, the main attraction on May 28 was viewing photographs taken at Upland's extensive Memorial Day festivities on May 26. The posted photo galleries contain a total of 222 pictures of the holiday parade, memorial services, and the church-sponsored family picnic in the park. The digital snapshots were taken by longtime Upland residents Dick McClintock and George Patterson, and borough newsletter editor Ken Stark.

According to Webmaster/Councilwoman Moira Crawford, who created the borough's website when she joined Borough Council in 2008, the 1,934 visitors to the website and 5,020 page views during the month of May is about 30% above the monthly average, while the total of 140 website visitors on May 28 alone represents a new single-day high.

Borough Buys Building To Create Parking & Police Exit

A vacated Eighth Street home was recently purchased at auction by Upland Borough, with the intent of razing the building to create a small public parking lot and a secondary exit for Upland police vehicles.

The borough paid just under $15,000 for the deed to the vacant building, getting the property for less than half of what they were prepared to pay.

The house at 227 Eighth Street sits directly behind the Kenneth N. Miller Law Center, which opened in February 2010 to serve as the Upland Police Department's first free-standing headquarters.

The primary purpose behind the land acquisition is to create a second exit driveway for police vehicles.

"The main thing was to enable us to get out of the police station during school hours," noted Council President Ed Mitchell.

Establishing a public parking lot with eight spaces (available on a first come, first serve basis) is a bonus for Eighth Street residents. No parking permits will be required by the borough to use this lighted lot. The additional off-street parking will be free, Mitchell stressed.

"It's not going to be a private parking lot. It's to be shared by the community," said Mitchell.

No timetable has been established for the property conversion. According to the borough office, the demolition and paving work will be done as funds become available.

A handful of Eighth Street residents came to Council's June 10 meeting to get more information. The speed of traffic on the residential street was a mutual concern.

"Creating a cut-through is going to change the traffic pattern. Eighth Street is a speedway right now. It is not safe," one resident suggested. "People are doing 50 and 60 (MPH) down this road," he added. After each neighbor had received answers to their questions, all agreed that the additional off-street parking and a greater police presence will both help promote Eighth Street safety.
